Yaak School Acceptable Use E-Policy

This policy applies to all electronic and digital equipment and services available at the Yaak School. Use of the computers, Internet and other electronic equipment is a privilege, not a right. The Internet brings the availability of material that may be controversial. Yaak School has taken precautions to monitor access thereby lessening the chances for users to access controversial materials or those inappropriate for the school setting. During school hours the teacher will determine acceptable Internet sites. Any action by an individual that is determined by an administrator to constitute an inappropriate use of the resources will result in the removal of those privileges. Vandalism to equipment or data will result in cancellation of privileges and possible further disciplinary action including charges for damaged equipment.

I have read and agree to the terms and conditions of Yaak School's Acceptable Use E-Policy for all computer, Internet, electronic and digital equipment and services. I understand that Internet access is designated for educational purposes and that the Yaak School has taken precautions to filter controversial material, however I recognize that it is impossible to restrict all access to such material and will not hold Yaak School responsible for materials acquired from the Internet.

During distance learning the school does not have access to your internet domain and is unable to block any unfavorable sites. The parents are responsible for monitoring their child's internet activity and will not hold the school accountable for their child accessing unfavorable sites outside of school.
